NATIONAL BASEBALL COMMISSION MEETS TO-DAY.

Will Frame Rules for World's Series and Consider Minor League Question—Task Set for Handicapper Voshburg—Prejudice Against Heavyweight Fighters.

The National Commission, otherwise known as the "Supreme Court of Professional Baseball," will hold an important meeting at Cincinnati to-day. The commission consists of Sam Johnson, president of the American League, H. C. Pritchard, president of the National League, and Garry Herrmann of the Cincinnati Nationals, who is chairman. Public interest in the proceedings will be centered in the making of rules and regulations under which a world's series will be played next fall between the pennant winners of the American and the National Leagues. Ball players also will await with much excitement this rule-making business for the reason that they are anxious to know how the gate receipts will be cut up. In view of the policy of some of the men who pay salaries it will not be at all surprising if the ball players who contend for the world's championship are treated with cold indifference, or rather receive a comparatively small slice of the gold that pours in the box offices, for it is understood that the "big boys" feel that they are entitled to all that they can get out of view of the high salaries that are paid nowadays.

With the season ahead of a big baseball, and the season looking so long that it will be impossible for the ball toasters to make extra money out of exhibition games, it can be readily appreciated how much love actually exists between the knights of the diamond and the individuals who employ them. Yet when it comes time to play for the world's series the members of the competing teams will play ball just as hard as if they were receiving every dollar of the receipts. Rivalry among players is always predominant, and that is what makes the national game popular.

The commission will go over the minor leagues situation at length. As the national American League is anxious to make any concessions to the minors in the way of increasing the drafting price for players and decreasing the number to be drafted. The commission will also be asked to look into the matter of the national agreement and adopted practical methods in securing minor league players for nothing, has voted to give the minors what they want. As the minors cannot gain a single point without a unanimous vote, the National League is perfectly safe with another great bluff. The commission will also be asked to look into the matter of the Chicago Nationals who "threw" a game to the Chicago Americans. Now that Taylor and Charley Connors, the owner of the Americans, want to have the matter investigated, Hart says there is no "Taylor case" at all, and will not attend the meeting. While peace is prevalent on the surface in the baseball world, the bitter feeling between the two big leagues still exists, and it would require only a small spark to set the conflagration of two years ago burning again with more vigor than before.

Relative to the Croker incident, the theory has been advanced that the English Jockey Club in refusing to allow three of the Croker two-year-olds to be trained at Newmarket, did not aim a blow at the former Tammany leader, but at the trainer, Brewer, who had not received a license to train in a public stable. Brewer was licensed to train for seven years, whose name, it is said, was stipulated at the time the license was granted. Croker's name was not in the list, so that when Brewer took charge of the three two-year-olds, he was technically violating a rule of the turf. While this theory is plausible and may be the truth, why did the English Jockey Club absently ignore Croker in making public the facts?

Handicapper W. S. Voshburg has a task set for him in the selection of weights for the three big handicaps, particularly the Brighton, which is the richest handicap run in this country. The increased number of high class three-year-olds each season makes the problem more perplexing. The four-year-old division this year is also of better quality than for some time past, which means that if the older horses, who have been picked and other, their class train on, they will not be regarded as invincible by any means. For that reason, handicappers are finding how Mr. Voshburg will treat such famous horses as Hermis, Irish Lad and the Pocket, when he must consider the chances of the four-year-olds, Beldame, Stalwart, Ort Wells, Dilly, Bryn Mawr and Brownstick. There was a lot of talk in last year's campaign when these horses were looked upon by their partisans as the favorites for the championship. Beldame was undoubtedly the champion three-year-old, but Stalwart toward the close of the season was considered one of the best long distance performers of the turf. Beldame's record is a credit to the Brighton. He won the yearling season, when he hung up a world's record, together with the speediest mile in the year, and the crack three-year-olds, Artful, Tanya, Tradition and Scowby, who were the two-year-olds of last year. Some believe that Tradition will lead the three-year-olds with his record of 1:20. What will be the impostor (or McChesney, Africander, Major Danterfield and Goldsmith, all former stars, but of late years among the back numbers. With Alhambra, Duke of the Vale, Dilly Snapper, Ensign, Lord, Hurd, Park, Belvedere, Beldame, Moharib, Pulsar, Runnels, Corbett, James Horn, St. Belaire, and others, the handicapper in the Brighton allotments, Mr. Voshburg, it may be said, has his hands full.

"Halter Tosses" Griffin and his turf associates. Tony Asse, the "Bookie King," went the docks at Hot Springs on Saturday and incidentally made a majority of the fifteen horses at Essex Park with their halter tosses. He began by running first and third in the opening race for two-year-olds at Essex Park, and then, respectively, he ran second in the next race with Wild Irishman and won the third and fourth races with Moss and Bill Curtis, respectively. Griffin's colors were also carried to the front in the race with Bill Curtis. Asse won the first race with Beldame. Willie Williams, another regular, won the combination with Buttons in the second event.

The Maryland Jockey Club, which operates the Pimlico track under the auspices of the Jockey Club, has decided to grant commissions, will not be allowed to be granted at future meetings. This action has been taken with a view to the fact that the speculation by women who come to the racetracks without escorts. The stewards of the Jockey Club have had their attention repeatedly called to the growth of this evil on the New York tracks, but so far no notice has been paid to it. Men who have the best interests of the turf at heart have been outspoken in regard to the trouble which has caused plenty of scandal last season at all the tracks. There is enough speculation in the betting ring without the grandstand being a commission who handle the women's money last year were constant in trouble. Some of the women were charged with petty larceny by their drivers. Let nothing be done beyond the laying off of several of the guilty ones, whose places were quickly filled by others. Said one of the officials at the track, in discussing the matter with THE SUN man last summer:

"The betting of the grandstand should be abolished. How can it be stopped? Why, by the fact that the officials at the track should be allowed to take the matter into their own hands. Under such circumstances the number of women regularly seen at the track before the Jockey Club should have action before another year."

The example set by the Baltimoreans therefore, should be followed, if the turf is to be kept on a high plane.

Boxing enthusiasts in Chicago, including some of the members of the leading athletic clubs, are preparing a bill to be introduced at this session of the Illinois Legislature that will legalize contests with gloves of not less than five ounces, before regularly incorporated athletic clubs, heavyweights to be excluded. Those who are framing the bill say that the current method of boxing, in which fighters wear under protection in Illinois is a disgrace, and that the sport should be killed. It is charged that the big fellows have done much to injure the boxing game in various parts of the country, and that their fights should be confined to California, where there is no chance for interference. But just the same the heavyweights have seemingly added to the fatalities of the ring and the feeling against them has been greatly augmented. There is no doubt that in a battle between Jetties and Fitzsimmons, the latter, however, and Neil, as a matter of fact, it is often the case that there is more real fighting between two little men than there is between two big ones. Ring experts have often stated that there never was a more vicious, brutal and cheap fight than the one by Kid Lavigne and Joe Walcott, at the light-weight limit, over at Massport ten years ago. There is more general interest in the box movie, but some of their fights have been comparatively tame.

Columbia's campaign are at work. They will be engaged by a graduate of the year, instead of a professional. But they will have a hard time beating Cornell, Syracuse, Wake Forest, Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania State, and other colleges. The college football season, as those crews are still in the care of experienced, paid coaches. With Yale and Harvard in the hands of professionals, Columbia practically stands alone as a college team. Columbia had a great crew when Walter Peet was head coach, but that was in the days of old. If at Poughkeepsie it will be a distinct triumph.

OUTLOOK FOR OCEAN RACE.

Commander Hebbinghaus Expects Fifth American Yacht to Try for Kaiser's Cup.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Commander Hans George Hebbinghaus, naval attaché of the German Embassy here, who is receiving entries of American yachts for the German Emperor's ocean cup race in May from New York to the Lizard, is highly gratified at the response he has already received from each of the yachting organizations which were requested to make entries. These entries come from only a preliminary invitation. Twenty or more yachts have been notified by Commander Hebbinghaus, but he has not sent out the final details and rules which will cover the race. The success of the event is now beyond doubt. Four boats have been entered, three American vessels and one English, the latter the Earl of Crawford's ship-rigged auxiliary Yacht. It is expected that within a few days final modifications are sent to the various yacht organizations there will be many more entries.

With four boats entered and the race three months away, the prospects for a large field are exceedingly bright. Commander Hebbinghaus expects to have one or two more English yachts and also some from Germany entered. There is also some hope that there will be a French yacht in the race.

"The outlook for a large number of American yachts is exceedingly gratifying," Commander Hebbinghaus said. "I have sent notices of the race and invitations to enter to twenty yacht clubs in this country and have had three entries as a result. The final conditions and rules have not yet been sent out from Germany. When this is done I expect that there will be further entries."

All that I have heard from the various clubs indicates that great interest is being manifested in this country over the race, which will be the yachting event of the year. I expect that there will be many as fifteen American boats participating."

BILLIARDS.

Mullen Beats Norris in Informal Match—Talk of National Association.

On the eve of the tournament for the national amateur billiard championship at the Mullen of Cleveland, Ohio, the first of the Class A title holders, is never able to keep away from this city, although he has held to his declaration never again to become a competitor. Mullen appeared at Maurice Daly's room yesterday and seemed anxious to learn how the entry list was being made up and how the probable participants were doing in practice. Mullen and his old rival, Norris, who was to play only one match, he asked out Charles Norris, who is to be one of the competitors, and the two engaged in a 300 point match at 14-inch balls. Mullen indicated much of his old time speed and finished with an average that was a fraction better than his. His best run was a cluster of 120 carries, which completed his victory. Norris, who was to play only one match, was a run of 61. Norris made nearly 200 points and his average was 100. Mullen's best run was 120. Mullen is expected to return to this city tomorrow, and with the Pennsylvania team he will be three of the men who have declared themselves as competitors for the national championship honors this year. All of the title holders have been successful in England for several years. The new organization is to take the place of the National Billiard Association, and is to be composed of amateurs and professionals and all interested in the sport. The fund will be to be set up in the body to the sport and give an official backing to all matters pertaining to it. George Cole Outpoints the Dixie Kid. George Cole, the Trenton negro, who is the most erratic fighter in the business, showed his true form in a six round bout at Philadelphia on last Saturday night with the Dixie Kid. Cole was the victor in the first round, but the Dixie Kid, who has been whipping them all or holding his own in the East and it was thought that he would not have a hard time in the fight. However, Cole took the upper hand at the start and kept it to the finish, defeating the Dixie Kid with a knockout in the fourth round. The referee, George McLaughlin, the referee, gave Cole a new word of advice, and from that time on the Dixie Kid was a shadow. In the fourth round Cole was exceedingly active, and the Dixie Kid was a shadow. In the fourth round Cole was exceedingly active, and the Dixie Kid was a shadow.
